And earlier in your testimony, you referenced a point at which Facebook actually limited the number of API calls that you could make to its servers. Do you recall that? A. Yes. Facebook limited our access to data on July July 17th, it appears. Q. Okay. And if you look at this document, what it says is I'm looking at page 894. There's an e-mail dated July 17, 2014, at 12:35 p.m. Do you see that? A. Yes. Q. Okay. And that's from Mr. Gildea, right? A. Yes. Q. And it says, "We got API rate limited." Do you see that? A. Yes. 1 Six4Three would be able to use version 1.0 forever?

- 2 A. Zuckerberg stated explicitly that Six -- that
- 3 Six -- that companies like Six4Three would be able to
- 4 continue to use version 1.0 and that they would be able
- 5 to choose which version of the API they want to use. He
- 6 never said forever. There's really no such thing as
- 7 forever. But he certainly stated that that would be
- 8 provided on an equal and fair basis.
- 9 Q. But did you -- did you believe at that point
- 10 he was saying that you would be able to use version 1.0
- 11 for five years or 10 years?
- 12 A. We believed that as long as version 1.0 was
- 13 accessible, as long as Graph API was accessible, the
- 14 friends endpoints were accessible, that they would be
- 15 made accessible on an equal, neutral and fair basis to
- 16 all companies that participated in the market.
- 17 Q. And at the time, did you do anything to
- 18 evaluate how long version 1.0 would be accessible?
- 19 A. State the question again. Did we do
- 20 anything --
- 21 Q. Did you do anything to investigate or
- 22 determine how long version 1.0 would be accessible
- 23 following the April 30th, 2014 announcement?
- 24 A. Well, Zuckerberg explicitly stated that it
- 25 would be remain accessible. He never put a time frame
 - Page 251
- Facebook itself had access to friends photos?
- 2 MR. GODKIN: Objection.
- 3 BY MS. MEHTA:
- 4 Q. That was your interpretation?
- 5 MR. GODKIN: Objection.
 - A. That is what Zuckerberg and a host of other
- 7 Facebook executives and employees had represented since
- 8 2007.

- 9 Q. And when you say "represented," you mean in F8
- 10 speeches?
- 11 A. Well, our review -- I didn't watch specific
- 12 speeches, but I read transcripts. I went to the
- 13 Web site. We reviewed representations. I read
- 14 articles. I was involved in the software development
- 15 community. I was aware of many representations from
- 16 2007 all the way through to 2014 and '15.
 - And most of these representations formed
- 18 a part of my general working knowledge in the software
- 19 business that had nothing to do with Six4Three. And so
- 20 at the time that Six4Three decided to even participate
- 21 in this market, I was already generally familiar with
- 22 not only, you know, these representations that had been
- 23 made for a very long period of time, but with many
- 24 companies who had participated in this ecosystem with
- 25 great success, including many of my friends and many of

1 on it.

21

- 2 Q. But did you do anything to figure out how
- 3 long -- I mean you --
- 4 A. Again, you're asking me to solve a problem we
- don't know exists.
- Q. Let me ask the question this way: Did you
- 7 believe at the time that he said that Graph API
- 8 version 1.0 would remain accessible, that it would
- 9 remain accessible for 50 years?
 - A. I don't think Zuckerberg's in a position to
- 11 guarantee that Facebook would exist for 50 years.
- 12 Q. What about 10 years? Did you think he was
- 13 guaranteeing version 1.0 for 10 years?
- 14 A. This emphasis on in perpetuity is -- is not
- 15 germane or relevant. As long as it is accessible, it
- 16 will be accessible to everyone on equal terms. At any
- 17 point in time, it could be made unaccessible. Facebook
- 18 could go out of business, for instance, but that means
- 19 it would be unaccessible for everyone, including for
- 20 Facebook to develop its own competitive applications.
 - Q. So your view was that Graph API 1.0 -- I'm
- 22 sorry. Strike that.
- 23 Your interpretation at the time of Mark
- 24 Zuckerberg's F8 speech was that Facebook would make
- 5 Graph version 1.0 available to developers for as long as
- e 251
 - the people that I've known for quite some time.
 Q. Can you identify any specific representation
 - 3 made by Facebook between 2007 and 2014 that you were

 - 4 aware of and claim to be relying on as of April of
 - 5 2015 -- sorry. April of 2014?
 - 6 A. Well, so I wasn't -- Six4Three was relying on
 - 7 these representations. I wasn't relying on these
 - 8 representations. In terms of my decision to make an
 - 9 investment in Six4Three and my belief that that
 - 10 investment was a wise decision and would generate a
 - 11 return and was being made on the premise of Facebook
 - 12 being a stable platform, yes, I could certainly identify
 - 13 those.
 - 14 Q. What specific representations are you saying
 - 15 you relied on?
 - 16 A. I mean, the most obvious one that comes to
 - 17 mind is the Facebook platform announcement; the Facebook
 - 18 platform FAQ --
 - 19 MR. GODKIN: Slow down.
 - 20 A. -- the various developer blog posts associated
 - 21 with the 2007 announcement; the 2010 announcement; the
 - 22 various news articles regarding Zuckerberg and Taylor's
 - 23 speeches at the 2010 announcement by range of
 - 24 representations over an extended period of time.
 - 25 Q. Do you have any documentary evidence that

Page 269 there's a reference here to -- on line 16 --

2 MR. GODKIN: Which page?

3 MS. MEHTA: Page 7.

4 BY MS. MEHTA:

Q. Line 16 says, "$4,081,950 in enterprise value at the time Facebook decided to end access to Graph API."

8 Do you see that?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. So what date is that referring to?

11 A. So the valuation of Six4Three was established

12 based on my discussions with Ted. And so the 4,000 --

13 the 4,081,950 is simply the number of outstanding units

multiplied by the price per unit. #2 received a portionof its units based on that capital investment, and then

16 it received a portion of those units based upon the fact

17 that it was, basically, responsible for the ability of 18 Six4Three to exist.

19 So it's roughly representing a

20 $3.75 million premoney valuation, which for a seed

21 company is very low. If you look at the average seed

22 valuation today, it's roughly $6 million. So this

23 represents a -- what? You know, 33 percent discount

24 relative to the average seed valuation for financing of 25 today.

10

1 A. If I don't know the answer to the first, I

2 can't know the answer to the second.

3 Q. Do you know what the average premoney

4 valuation for a seed round of an image recognition app

5 is at any point in time since 2012 to the present?

A. Off the top of my head, sitting here right

7 now, I cannot give you a specific number, although, as

8 someone who's been investing in this business. I have

9 done research on this and there are comps out there.

Q. For image recognition software startups?

11 A. There's data around recognition software and

12 other startups. I don't know if there has been a

13 venture, you know, backed report specifically around

14 image recognition.

15 Q. Can you identify any evidence of what a

16 premoney seed valuation for an image recognition startup

17 would have been at any point in time from 2012 to 2015?

18 A. Yes. They're roughly equivalent to most other

19 software businesses; SAS businesses, consumer

20 businesses. Roughly speaking, if you're developing a

21 subscription product, right, a turnkey subscription

22 software service, and you're seeking money from the 23 venture capital community, and you're seeking your first

24 nonfriends and family financing, your first seed

25 financing, then, roughly speaking, your valuation is

Page 270
Q. And when you say average seed valuation

2 finances done today, what specific technology sectors or

3 industries are you referring to?

A. It refers to venture backed software startups.

Q. Can you be any more specific than that?

6 A. I believe the data I'm referring to comes from

7 one of those organizations like PitchBook. I don't

8 recall specifically. But I just attended a CEO summit

9 with one of my VCs, and we spent lots of time talking

0 about this data.

And one of the numbers that was noted is

12 that $6 million, according to -- whether it's PitchBook

3 or one of these other platforms for these seed data --

14 MR. GODKIN: Slow down.

A. -- $6 million was the -- the average premoney

16 valuation for a seed round.

17 Q. What do you think the -- strike that.

Do you know what the average premoney

19 valuation for a seed round for an app in 2012 or 2013

20 was?

21 A. No, but that's something that somebody could

22 find out.

23 Q. And do you know what the average premoney valuation for a seed round for image recognition app was 25 in 2012 or 2013?

1 going to be somewhere in the 3 to $10 million premoney 2 range.

3 Q. And can you think of an example of a

4 subscription-based service that has a valuation of 3 to 5 $10 million?

MR. GODKIN: Objection.

7 BY MS. MEHTA:

8 Q. Anything that comes to mind?

A. Sorry. You're asking me to identify a company

10 that has raised money at a 3 to $10 million valuation?

11 Q. On a subscription-based model.

12 A. I mean, just look at any VC Web sites.

13 Q. How --

14 A. Most -- most all of those companies, if they

5 haven't raised a Series A, the money they raised was in 16 a valuation within that range.

Q. Are you -- are you aware of food delivery

18 subscription services like BlueApron?

A. I know of BlueApron. Sure.

20 Q. Okay. And would you consider the premoney

21 seed valuation for a food delivery, dinner delivery

22 service, like BlueApron, to be the same as an image

23 recognition subscription-based model?

24 A. Valuations in the on-demand delivery space,

25 from my standpoint, should be much lower than the image
